I N T R O D U C T I O N

This profile is designed to give you new insights into your character and personality from a perspective considerably different from that which most people use. The descriptions in this profile are based on the ancient science of numerology.

The profile discusses the lessons you are learning in this life,

your deep inner desires and how to fulfill them,
your talents and personality traits and how to make the best use of them,
the environment in which you work best,
your attitude toward work, and your ways of relating to other people.

The profile also describes how to identify and take advantage of existing opportunities and how to open the way to new and even more favorable possibilities.

The numerology chart from which this profile is derived is based on your birth date, birth name and current name. The birth date and birth name describe the characteristics and abilities with which you were born. The current name describes the changes in those characteristics and abilities which occurred after you started to use your new name. If you've used your current name for less than five years, the changes it describes may still be in the process of unfolding.

Some talents and characteristics surface at different times in your life. Occasionally, a characteristic described in this profile has been present in an earlier part of your life and is not of current importance. Sometimes, a talent mentioned here is present although you may not be fully aware of it. If this is the case, check with a friend who knows you well and you may be pleasantly surprised. A few characteristics may not have appeared in your life as yet although they're described in this profile. The description of these undeveloped potentials may serve to open your consciousness to new and exciting possibilities.

For many people, some of their strong potentials are not developed because of obstacles which have not been overcome. A part of this profile may describe you as you would like to be rather than as you feel you are. When this is the case, the sections of the profile describing the obstacles holding back that particular potential are especially important for you to understand.

This profile describes your life lessons, inner desires, potential abilities and the way they interact in your life. It provides a road map which can help you understand yourself better, but it's up to you to use this information -- along with your free will -- in choosing the road you want to explore and the distance you wish to travel.

O V E R V I E W

There are several different sides to your character. Your strongest attribute, your significant potential for spiritual awareness, is probably of little importance during your youth and adolescence. It usually becomes more prominent during your early twenties but is probably not fully developed until you're at least in your thirties. Many people with this special potential, curiously enough, are hardly aware of the great gift they possess. If you choose to use and develop this ability, though, you may be able to act as a channel for special spiritual understanding. As this potential develops, others may recognize and appreciate your knowledge and wisdom, and you may be asked to share your understandings.

During your early years -- and during your adult years if you choose not to develop your spiritual side -- the other facets of your character, described below, are probably of more significance than the spiritual aspect of your personality. During those early years, you may experience a good deal of nervous tension. There's likely to be a reserved and introspective side to you, and some of your youth and adolescence may be spent in improving your communication and learning to feel comfortable with other people. During your early years, you'll struggle to balance your various interests and desires. You'll sometimes take care of one, sometimes another, but rarely to your complete satisfaction. As you get older, you'll begin to understand how to make the best use of your diverse capabilities.

YOUR STRONG SPIRITUAL AWARENESS AND ANALYTICAL APPROACH --- AND YOUR
DREAMY VIEW OF REALITY

YOUR 7 LIFE PATH AND 11 EXPRESSION

You have a fine analytical mind and are capable of much in the way of learning. You probably have the potential to understand fundamental truths as well as the capacity to search for ultimate meanings. You may involve yourself in complex technical, scientific or philosophical studies. One of your major lessons in life is to use your abilities to learn the peace of mind which can only come from knowing yourself and accepting and expressing your deepest feelings.

When you use your spiritual awareness, you probably intuitively perceive a great deal about the non-material world -- and religious, psychic or metaphysical forces. Other people will see your ability to act as a channel for these awarenesses. You may receive some recognition for your efforts when you transmit your unique knowledge and increased perception of the deepest truths to others. You may want to devote yourself to a career in which these spiritual forces play an important role.

If you develop and use your excellent mind and fine intuition, you'll be able to spread your knowledge in a superior manner. When you learn to trust your intuition, it may bring you to the highest levels of wisdom. You can be extremely capable at whatever work you want to do. You have a low-keyed, but extremely intense, inspirational quality which gives you a fine leadership potential. You probably inspire with the purity of your approach and the fine example you often set.

One of your strengths is likely to be the very logical, rational manner in which you usually approach the problems you're trying to solve. Your ability to analyze, judge and discriminate is apt to be extremely well-developed. Others are likely to appreciate the unusually objective viewpoint you present a great deal of the time. You're also likely to enjoy research and study.

You are very often extremely selective in your choice of associates. Others may sometimes think of you as distant or aloof. You're also on a different wavelength than other people much of the time. This can be a considerable strength because it gives you the capability of unique approaches to problems as well as the possibility of unusual solutions. Because of that different wavelength, though, people may have difficulty in getting to know you or in fully understanding you. In some periods of your life, you may spend much time alone. You may have to learn how to spend time by yourself and still feel comfortable. This may not be an easy lesson to learn.

You are often far more content dreaming about a potential accomplishment than working on making it happen. There's an unpredictable side to you, too, brought about primarily by your considerable difficulty, at times, in separating fantasy and reality. You will probably have to work at achieving a more realistic point of view in order to attain your goals.

It's usually harder to use your unique high-level awarenesses than it first appears. There's a strong nervous tension that accompanies your special understandings, and it may interfere with making the most of your spiritual gifts. In your youth and adolescence, you probably have only a glimpse of your considerable potential and are extremely aware of the tension. As you get older, you have a far better chance of harnessing your talents and a better chance, too, of reducing the tension level. With ongoing maturity, the possibility of using your special capability is likely to increase markedly. Nevertheless, you'll probably have to learn to enjoy your current achievements -- and they can be substantial -- rather than postponing your satisfaction until you've achieved higher goals. This may be a difficult lesson. You may also have to learn that you can accomplish a good deal only if you work primarily toward idealistic goals and place considerably higher emphasis on those goals than on your own needs.

Some people who are aware of their spiritual potential prefer not to use it. Others try using it for a while and then abandon their attempts. Most people, though, keep working to make the best possible use of this distinctive part of themselves.

YOUR 16/7 KARMIC DEBT

Your growth will probably follow your own leanings and, since you often keep your motives and feelings to yourself, your actions may often not be what others expect. You may frequently confuse or upset some of your friends and associates, even people who think they know you well. You'll have to work on reducing the effects of your strong introspective side if you want to get on better with other people. It will probably take considerable effort on your part to maintain a comfortable permanent relation with a spouse or business partner.

There may be a few times in your life when there are abrupt or unusual changes in personal or career situations which appeared to be relatively stable. These sudden shifts are likely to be difficult to handle. You may accept these experiences more easily if you can see that these matters are not completely in your control.

YOUR 7 MODIFIED KARMIC LESSON

Although you have the potential to develop your spiritual side, you may devote only limited attention to this area, particularly in your younger years. Faith in spiritual values, though, is likely to be an important key to your growth. As you express an active interest, you'll begin to achieve the peace of mind which you would like to have. As you grow in spiritual understanding, you're likely to be pleasantly surprised at how much improvement you find in your day-to-day living.

YOUR SENSITIVE , COOPERATIVE NATURE
-- AND YOUR SHY , RETIRING SIDE

YOUR 2 EXPRESSION

That intuitive and spiritual side is a primary part of your character. There are other aspects of your personality which contribute to the overall picture even though they're of lesser importance than your intuitive side. When some of these lesser characteristics conflict with that inner-directed side, the inner-directed side usually determines your course.

You are a very sensitive person with an extreme awareness of your own and others' feelings. Because you are so touched by the subtleties of everyone's emotions, you can understand a great deal from a word, a gesture or even an unspoken thought. Others will recognize this sensitivity and turn to you for the support and understanding you can provide. With this ability, you may choose to work with groups of people where your diplomatic approach and sensitivity can be of much help. Although you may become hurt or resentful in your younger years because of your unusual sensitivity, you will probably learn to use your responsiveness for your own and others' benefit.

You're often a considerate person, giving and receiving much in the way of friendship, affection and love. For the most part, you enjoy working with others and are often admired for the team spirit and cooperative attitude you bring to your activities. You display patience and adaptability a good deal of the time and often pay attention to even the smallest details. Your tactful manner and your innate desire for calmness help provide a balanced and harmonious environment.

Others are likely to see you as sympathetic, concerned and devoted and appreciate you for these qualities. More often than not, you use quiet persuasion instead of a forceful manner to produce the results you want. In many situations, your own needs are secondary and you often don't hesitate to deny yourself if others can benefit.

You're probably aware of your delicate ego. Particularly during your youth and adolescence, it may be more comfortable to stay in the background and express little of your emotions. Although you have deep feelings, you probably have to learn to express them clearly and directly. This may require considerable effort and understanding. When you aren't sure of others' reactions, you probably appear shy and retiring and put your ideas forward in a tentative manner. When you're in an uncomfortable situation, you're apt to appear worried and anxious.

You have an artistic side although you may not always choose to make use of it. With your sensitivity and innate desire for balance, you may express your artistic impulses in poetry or music. The other arts may also appeal to you. In these and other activities, you often don't receive the recognition you deserve. You may even find that your contribution is occasionally credited to someone else. You may need to be more assertive to get your deserved acknowledgement unless you're satisfied with less appreciation than others prefer.

YOUR 9 MATURITY NUMBER

Sometime in the middle of your life, most likely between the ages of thirty-five and fifty, you'll probably re-evaluate the satisfactions you've found in giving of yourself -- your time, energy or material possessions -- with little consideration of the return. You may want to examine whether it's been easy for you to give in a relatively selfless way on a consistent basis or whether it's only occasionally comfortable. If you've managed to be giving, you may want to question the pleasure -- or lack of pleasure -- which you found in the experience. Because of this mid-life appraisal, it wouldn't be surprising if you make some important alterations in your attitudes and actions in regard to giving in order to receive more of the kind of satisfactions you want.

YOUR PRACTICAL LEADERSHIP ABILITY
-- AND YOUR DESIRE FOR INDEPENDENCE

YOUR 1 SOUL URGE AND 1 BIRTHDAY

Your generous and cooperative side is an important part of your character. There's another side, though, which appears to contribute just as much to your general makeup.

You have a strong desire to be independent and prefer to be completely free to act on your own. Since you're capable of assuming a leadership role, you would enjoy running a business or being active in politics. With your ability to organize and manage, you're likely to supervise and direct activities in your family life as well as in the business world.

Others often see your strong character and appreciate your inner strength, too. They're often willing to trust your judgment and follow as you initiate and control activities. Your leadership is often accomplished by making the major decisions and letting others take care of the details. A lot of your work is produced with an original flair. You may tend to dominate others at times, and this may cause difficulties. You may want to moderate this tendency so that you don't antagonize other people.

You have a good mind and can find and develop creative solutions to problems, particularly problems involved with material matters. Others recognize your practical, down-to-earth viewpoint and appreciate your logical thinking. You can often easily convince others that your course of action is the right one for a particular situation. You use your innate understanding of people and your clever analytical approach to make your points. Much of the time, you know how to present your views in the best possible light in order to win acceptance.

If your leadership abilities aren't expressed as strongly as you would like, it may have to do with some of the experiences of your younger years. Although you want to be independent, there's some chance that your early years are spent in an environment which emphasized your dependent side instead. As you get older, you'll probably learn to express the strong side of your character and eventually find yourself in a position where you are no longer dominated.

Along with your strong need for independence, you often have an innate desire to accomplish, to win recognition and to attain money and material possessions. You also want to exert your personal power. Others see you as ambitious and determined. You may have to guard against those times when your ambitions run away with you. You also have a strong desire to express your individuality and may occasionally have to work to keep this desire within reasonable limits.

There may often be times when you have strong needs to be satisfied and can't rest until you've taken care of them. You often act without consulting others because you're convinced that your approach is the correct or only way. Even when your approach is a good one, others may often be irritated or upset because you haven't taken them into account. As a matter of fact, there are times when you may have difficulty seeing other people's point of view. You often prefer to do things your own way, and you may have to learn to consult others involved before you act. You may want to guard against any tendency to be rigid or stubborn. When you are impatient or bossy, you may trip yourself up.

YOUR 19/1 KARMIC DEBT

You probably have considerable work to do to be able to see yourself and your needs realistically. If you're too immersed in your own concerns, you may run into problems because of your inability to recognize others' needs. You may have to learn to look past your own interests in order to become more aware of other people. If you're egotistical or aggressive, it will only add to the difficulties.

If, on the other hand, your needs are fulfilled primarily by submissively depending on others, you have to find the strength to break free from this dependence and learn to act on your own. You'll find little comfort in blaming your environment or other people for your inability to stand on your own two feet. If you're lazy or fearful, your problems in this area will require additional effort.

If you think you can hide your feelings of superiority or dependence from others, you're probably only fooling yourself. Others can probably read your character clearly -- whether you're submissive, dominating or comfortably independent.

YOUR 8 KARMIC LESSON

Despite your good business potential, you probably have to learn how to deal with money comfortably in your personal life. You may worry that you never have enough money, or you may have an unrealistic view of how far your earnings will go. You may buy things you really can't afford, or you may be afraid to buy things although the cost is well within your income. Until you can deal with your personal finances with ease, you may be subject to uncomfortable pressures related to financial dependence or excessive striving for attainment.

SOME OTHER MATTERS TO CONSIDER

There are several other traits worth noting. These traits are likely to require perseverance and effort for resolution, but the resolution will probably prove of much benefit to you.

YOUR 3 KARMIC LESSON

You probably feel uncomfortable in many social situations. In these situations, it's apt to be easier for you to withdraw and express as little as possible of your feelings or opinions. It's difficult to promote yourself when you don't feel as capable as other people. You'll have to develop your self-assurance so that you can express yourself well enough so that people appreciate your presence and your abilities. Until you learn to do this, you will be short changing yourself and, most likely, making it difficult to advance in your career.

YOUR 3 CHALLENGE

During your early years, you're likely to have difficulty expressing yourself well in many social situations because of your fear of ridicule. You probably find it easier to stay in the background at larger gatherings because of your discomfort. During your youth and adolescence, you may limit your social life to a few well-chosen friends. As you grow older and develop your social skills, you're likely to be pleasantly surprised when you recognize how much others enjoy and appreciate you.

THE OPPORTUNITIES AND INFLUENCES THAT WILL AFFECT YOUR LIFE
IN 1962

YOUR 1 LIFE PATH PERIOD AND
1 PINNACLE

In addition to the many personality traits and characteristics just described, two long term cycles, the Life Path Period and the Pinnacle, set the background tone for a number of years of your life. They produce no abrupt or intense effect, but, rather, determine the general influences that you'll feel during the time they're active.

At this time in your life you're likely to have an interest in your independence along with a concern with your accomplishments and the status and recognition that go along with those accomplishments. Even if you're not directly involved with business matters, you're apt to have some interest in the business dealings of those close to you. If you've enjoyed anything in the way of a successful career, there's a good chance that you want to build on your achievements. If success, as you see it, has not yet come your way, you're likely to be eagerly searching for it. Make sure you take others into account as you work to move ahead. If you still feel dependent more often than you care to admit, you should be aware that gaining your independence is a prerequisite to achievement.

YOUR 7 PERSONAL YEAR

You may be occupied for several years with the general concerns described above. In addition to those interests, though, the Personal Year is a more specific influence that has a much stronger impact on your daily life. Though this influence is not directly related to your basic personality, it can show the time of greatest opportunity or when potential difficulties can arise. Having this information before hand can help you to get the most out of each year. Let's examine the specific areas of concern which are likely to attract your attention in 1962.

By and large, 1962 isn't a year for change and expansion. Rather, it's a time to take stock of yourself and your current place in life in preparation for more dramatic action in the next few years. In 1962, you would do well to spend a good deal of your time examining the past and present and planning for the future. Reflect, analyze, study and meditate. Try to find time to be alone -- at least occasionally -- or to engage in quiet activity. Get fully acquainted with yourself, your deep inner needs as well as your hidden powers. If there are responsibilities to handle, take care of them as quickly as possible so that you have as much time as possible for inner contemplation.

If you're so inclined, this could be a time for increased spiritual awareness -- awareness which may prove particularly meaningful in the years ahead. Since you're likely to have a desire to search for wisdom and hidden truth, this may be a year when you can make considerable progress in your spiritual undertakings. You may also choose to concentrate on some technical or scientific subjects which appeal to you. You may want to do research, write or teach in 1962. With your fine analytical sense and your unique viewpoint, you may make good progress here, too, and be amply rewarded.

People may see you, though, as extremely detached this year, at least on occasion. If your communication isn't particularly clear -- and there's a substantial possibility of that happening -- problems can easily arise. Your communication may be further disturbed by your tendency to repress your feelings much of the time. Don't force issues. If you feel limited or lacking direction on occasion, try to wait patiently until you see things more clearly. You may feel lonely at times, although you may also understand the need for time alone to better develop your inner resources. If you possibly can, tell those close to you of your strong need to spend time by yourself. If you feel under stress this year because of a sense of restriction, that stress may cause health problems which require attention.

S U M M A R Y

If you've chosen to develop your spiritual side, there's probably a great deal of wisdom to be found in the spiritually aware kind of person you are likely to be now or are working to become. Other people usually recognize and appreciate your refined sensibilities, your unusual understandings and your authoritative work. You are probably learning how to use the special sensitivity and power of the intuitive part of your character to best advantage. As you learn, you are apt to find a great deal of satisfaction in your life. As you mature, you'll probably give much to other people in the sharing of your very special spiritual gifts.

If you've chosen to place the emphasis in your life on capabilities other than the spiritual, you are probably learning to consolidate your other talents in a comfortable and productive way. As you mature, you'll probably learn to take care of both your inner needs and material desires while also learning to relate well with other people.
